HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.
The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.
Those preferring a Medicine free from Alchoholic admixture, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.
Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.
The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust For Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.
These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.
There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.
PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,
And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.
It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, never feel well. They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.
To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,
Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.
Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.
HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:
Philadelphia, March 18, 1767.
"I find 'Hoofland's German Tonic, useful in diseases and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system.
Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD."
HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 23, 1866.
"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."
FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.
Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear conviction of the truth of the proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.
FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL.
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.
I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.
Yours truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

MRS. WAYNE'S FOOTMAN.

"Yes, mother, I grant all you say readily enough. Miss Wayne is beautiful, and agreeable, and accomplished. She sings superbly, and plays with taste and skill. And she wears her dry goods with infinite grace, and has a class in the Sabbath school, and always favors the contribution plate a green back; but still I am not so sure of her heart. And, mother, if ever I marry, I want a woman whom I can respect and love."

Seymore Lyle threw himself down on an ottoman at his mother's feet, and engaged himself diligently in a business which men generally excel in—tangling the silks and worsteds in the work basket he had taken from the ottoman to his knee.

Mrs. Lyle lifted her silken morning robe a little out of her son's way, for she was one of those immaculate ladies who cannot bear to have their robes crushed or tumbled, and let her handsome dark eyes rest a moment on his face.

She smiled pleasantly, as if pleased with the picture. She had reason to be. Seymore was her only child—twenty four, handsome, and noble, and honorable. He had just entered upon the practice of the law in his native city, and bade fair to distinguish himself in the profession he had chosen.

'Well, mother?' he said, questioningly, smiling up into the still youthful looking face of this his only near relative.

'Seymore, I am sorry you are so suspicious. Do you not know that it is a point of law always to consider a person innocent and pure until proved otherwise? A lawyer should be law-abiding, my son.'

'Perhaps the business makes me suspicious. I do not think I am that by nature. But in this case I am, to a certain extent. However lightly I may sometimes speak of it, I look upon marriage as a solemn thing—a compact too holy to be entered upon without some thought. It is an obligation one cannot put off at will, like a distasteful garment, and if I marry, I want to marry a woman with whom I can be happy. Annette Wayne is lovely and charming, and all that But ——'

'Well, Seymore?'

'I cannot take her on trust, even supposing she is ready to accept me. I desire to prove her, and I shall do so. I am going to live in the same house with her and in such a capacity that I can read her character as I never could, if I met her on equal ground.'

'What wild plot now, Seymore? I trust you will remember that you have a proud old family name to keep up.'

'Never fear, mother, mine. The dead and gone Seymores shall not blush in their graves at anything I may do—God helping me. Mrs. Wayne has advertised for a footman, and I am about to apply for the place.'

'You! Seymore Lyle. Are you mad?'

'I think not, mother dear. If I am, there is method in my madness. I am going up to my room to prepare for my advent in servantdom, and when I am dressed, I will call on you.'

A half hour later, Mrs. Lyle was surprised by the entrance of a strange man into her sitting room, and the genuine scream she uttered at his appearance was good evidence of the success of his disguise to Seymore's mind

His dark locks were covered with a coarse red wig, his clear complexion had been skillfully painted, until it was freckled as a turkey's egg, and the faded suit of clothes he wore indicated a long credit at his tailor's.

'Well, mother, how do you like me?' asked Seymore.

'Like you? You are hideous! No danger of any one's penetrating that disguise. Try and behave yourself properly, though, if Mrs. Wayne does engage you.'

'I am all propriety. Good-by, mother, for a day or two. I would kiss you, but it would be impudent, you know, for a footman to take such liberties.'

Mrs. Wayne was pleased with the applicant, who called himself John Seele, and after a few questions as to his capability—the answering of which put John in a cold perspiration—he was duly installed as footman in her establishment. One of his duties was to tend the front door, and see after the fires; and in these capacities he obtained frequent glimpses of Miss Annette.

The second night of his engagement at the Wayne mansion, there was a grand ball at the house of some one of the fashionables, and Miss Wayne attended. John was to keep a fire for her in the dressing room, and admit her when she came home. Mrs. Wayne read a novel, and dozed in an arm chair.

John began to think a footman's life any thing but easy, when one o'clock struck, and still no Miss Annette. Just before two she rang. John hastened to the door and let her in, and in closing it he managed to set his foot on the trailing skirt of her dress.

Her face flushed with anger, and she snatched her robes around her with any thing but the lady like grace Seymore Lyle had always so much admired in her.

'You awkward clown!' she exclaimed, sharply; 'learn to keep off a lady's dress, or I will have you discharged?'

'Beg parding, mem!' said John, politely, pulling his red foretop, 'but it aint every poor feller as has been brought up in the school of politeness, and learned what to do with his hands and feet.'

'Who asked you to reply?' she retorted, contemptuously.

'Nobody, mem.'

Mrs. Wayne met her on the stairs.

'Mother, that new footman of yours is an idiot! And he looks enough to give me the horrors. Heavens! what a chill evening it has been! Mr. Lyle was not there, and I made myself hideous in white and simplicity for nothing. No other person has any appreciation for that style. When we are married, though, I will teach him that diamonds are more to my taste than white roses!'

'I dare say,' muttered John, between his closed teeth. 'I dare say you would have no objection to begin the lesson at once.'

All the next day Miss Annette was cross and out of sorts. On poor John her wrath especially descended. He could do nothing to suit her, and more than one sharp reprimand he listened to, delivered in that voice he had once thought so soft and sweet, as to be incapable of being pitched to the high key which, after all, seemed most natural to it.

Annette gave John orders not to admit any one; she was not at home, and she passed the day curled up on the sofa in the back parlor, reading an old novel, and taking her ease in a frayed wrapper and stockings none too fresh from the laundry.

Just before dark there was a timid ring at the door. John opened it, and saw a little shivering figure on the broad steps. A pair of brown eyes looked up wistfully into his face, and a musical voice asked—'Is Miss Annette at home?'

Looking into the brown eyes, and noticing the soft color which came and went so charmingly on the pearly cheek, John forgot that he had orders to deny his young mistress to any callers, and replied, quite in his natural voice—'Yes, she is; will you walk in?'

The girl stepped into the hall, and he saw that she was very thinly dressed, and she carried a bundle. He ushered her into the back parlor at once, where Annette, having renounced her sofa, was ensconced in an arm chair, with her feet on the fender.

She looked up and frowned at the intrusion.

'John, you stupid blockhead! I told you I was not at home to day.'

'Beg pardon, mem—I forgot!' said John, nervously.

'Well, it's one of my working people, so it's of no particular consequence.—Miss Ainslie, have you brought the cape? John, put some coal on the fire. It is as cold as Greenland here. Let us see how you have done it, Mary.'

The girl unrolled her bundle, and displayed a pink thibet opera cape, embroidered in white so exquisitely, that John forgot himself again, and stood gazing at it in profound admiration.

'Dont stand there gaping, John,' said Annette, sharply. 'Put on some coals!' Then to Miss Ainslie, 'It is really very well executed, and I will give you something more of the same sort to do before long. You can go now, for it is nearly dark, and you'll be afraid if you stop longer.'

Miss Ainslie rose, and hesitated on her way to the door.

'If you could pay me for the work to-day,' she said, in a troubled voice—'my rent is due, and my little sister is ill——'

'O, don't trouble yourself to proceed,' said Annette, coarsely, 'I know the whole story by heart. There is always a sick mother or sister. I can't pay you to-day—it's eight dollars, I believe—and I have only twenty by me, and that I want to use to morrow.—Call around next week, and I will pay you.'

'Indeed, Miss Wayne,' said the girl, in a choked voice. 'I am suffering for it, or I would not ask you——'

'Don't trouble me, my good girl, I have a headache to day, and need rest and quiet. I will pay you next week. John, show her out.'

A bright scarlet rose to Miss Ainslie's cheeks as she followed the tall footman to the door, and John was sure he saw tears in the brown eyes. She hurried down the icy street, but before she had gone a dozen rods Mrs. Wayne's footman had overtaken her.

'Here is something for you, Miss,' he said, hastily, and thrust a ten dollar note into her hand.

'O, Miss Wayne sent it, did she?'—she exclaimed, joyfully. 'I am so glad! And you were very kind to bring it.'

'Thank you, mem!' said John, blushing, and not knowing what to say, but feeling some way strangely well pleased with himself.

'Dear little thing!' said he to himself, 'I wish I had given her a fifty instead of a ten, but then she would have mistrusted it did not come from Miss Wayne. How pretty she is! I rather think I'd like to be her footman. I'll make her acquaintance some way. It's fortunate for me that she dropped her card in the hall as she went out—let me see,' and John drew out the bit of pasteboard and studied the delicate chirography by the light of a street lamp—'Miss Mariette Ainslie, No. 8 B—— street.' She must be dreadfully poor, for B—— street is a wretched place. But I'll make an errand there.'

The next day, John knocked at the door of No. 8 B—— street. Miss Ainslie answered the summons, and invited him to enter.

It was a meagre little room into which she ushered him, but, for all that, it was neat and cheerful. A geranium was blooming on the window sill, and on a table by the side of a cot bed, there was a red rose bush covered with blossoms. On the bed lay a golden haired child of five or six years, her face wasted by disease, and one transparent little hand resting on the quiet head of a white kitten.

Poor John was terribly embarrassed and Miss Ainslie kindly helped him to an explanation of his errand.

'You come from Miss Wayne, I suppose?'

'Yes, mem!' said John; 'that is to say, no, mem! I come for myself,' and here he came to a dead stop.

Mary looked at him curiously. He plunged into the matter at random.

'You see I thought—that is, I decided that I should like an opera cape myself, like Miss Wayne's, you know.' The girl laughed, but checked herself at sight of her visitor's distressed face.

'For a friend; I suppose?' John caught eagerly at the suggestion.

'Yes, yes, for a friend. Yes, you are correct. Can you do it for me?'

'Certainly. What color is it?'

'O, any color,' said John; 'it don't matter! that is, it does matter. How

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Nov. 25, 1868.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

☞The Democrats want Grant to have "a policy." He is too sharp for them. A President's policy don't pay.

☞During Court weeks we added a respectable number of names to our list of subscribers. Now is the time to send in the names of new subscribers.

☞The committee on elections in the next Congress will be left to decide upon the contested seat in the 21st district of this State. It will be either Covode or Foster.

☞Gen. Grant says (so the papers say,) no one will know who his Cabinet officers are to be until after his inauguration. What a guessing there will be until then?

☞The marriage of the Vice President elect, Hon. Schuyler Colfax, took place on the 11th, at Andover, Ohio. The bridal party passed through here on Wednesday for Washington.

☞A fillibustering movement is in progress in America against Cuba. That country is now in a state of insurrection, and the insurgents are in the ascendancy, having possession of nearly all the principal cities.

☞General Sheridan, it is reported, has commenced a winter campaign against the Indians. The red-skinned "child of nature," who thrived in summer, it is thought, will be made to suffer for his atrocities in winter.

☞It is proposed to increase the pay of the President from $25,000 to $100,000 per annum. It is not necessary to add that Gen. Grant, whose every endeavor when in position, has been to curtail expenses, is not in sympathy with the proposed increase of salary.

☞The people in and about Harrisburg are afraid of being disturbed by an earthquake. They are sure they heard something like one some days ago. It is to be hoped the Legislature, when it meets, will be kept "regulated" through fear of being called upon suddenly to settle up.

☞A well organized movement is on foot to remove the National Capitol from Washington to some Western city. This, in our opinion, will be done at some future day, for progress west ward is the order of the day, and this national institution will find a centre. But for the present, let it stand where it is.

☞The Democracy are getting ready for the next campaign. A Governor will be to elect, and we have no doubt they will put forward their strongest man. Our choice will be the choice of the Union Republican Convention, and for him "Old Huntingdon will roll up one thousand majority —possibly a few hundred more.

☞Gen. Grant, having been asked by a visitor whether it was true that he had directed his Private Secretary, Gen. Badeau, to destroy all applications for office, without showing them to him, replied: "Yes; some of the applications might be from good men, and I don't want to get prejudiced against them by their untimely haste." General Grant is importuned for money as well as for office. Every day he receives letters asking gifts or loans.

☞The Cambria Freeman, Democratic, now says: "The nomination of Horatio Seymour and Francis P. Blair as our candidates for President and Vice President, was what Talleyrand, the French diplomat, would have termed worse than a crime—it was a blunder." And yet during the campaign that paper, with others who now denounce them, declared they were the all in all. Now that your men are down, don't tramp upon them—it looks bad.

☞The State organization of the Boys in Blue offered a banner for the largest increase Republican vote at the Presidential election over the October election. M. S. Lytle, in a dispatch to the Press, claims the banner for Mapleton district. The total vote in that district in October was 91, and the Democratic majority five; in November the Republican majority was 8, being a Republican gain of over fourteen and one-fourth per cent. This Mr. L. says is better than any other district that has presented claims.

GOVERNOR.

The active friends of several gentlemen are already bringing their names prominently before the Union Republican party for the next nomination for Governor. Gen. Geary will be urged by his numerous friends for a second nomination. Gen. Beaver of Centre, Hon. Geo. V. Lawrence of Armstrong, Hon. W. W. Ketchum of Luzerne, and Gen. Harry White of Indiana, are also named as candidates and are all good men. The Gubernatorial question will not open up fairly until the Senatorial question is disposed of.

United States Senator.

The contest for U S. Senator is becoming warm, and we are gratified to see the name of our townsman Hon. John Scott, brought prominently before the people in every part of the State for the position. Mr. Scott has made for himself a reputation that should win in the contest. Hon. Galusha A. Grow, Chairman of the Union State Central Committee, Mr. W. H. Kemble, Treasurer of the same, Hon. Frank Jordan, Hon. J. K. Morehead, and Hon. Thomas Marshall, of Pittsburg, are prominently named for the position.

[From the Ebensburg Alleghenian.]

Our next Legislature will elect a Republican successor to Hon. Charles A. Buckalew in the United States Senate. Who will be the man? The names of a large number of Republicans are mentioned in that connection —all good men and true, and worthy and well qualified to fill the office.—But the name of Hon. John Scott, of Huntingdon, appears to loom up most prominently in the foreground. Mr. Scott is everywhere known to be one of the ablest men in the State. We heard a gentleman say, not long since, that he had "listened to all the best speakers of either party during the late campaign, and John Scott was a head and shoulders above any and all of them in point of ability." This is high, but merited praise. Then, he is a representative Republican—an advocate and exponent of the advanced principles of the great Republican creed. We trust the State will honor itself by electing Mr. Scott to represent it in the upper house of Congress. He will reflect a higher measure of credit upon the State in that capacity than probably any other available man.

[Correspondence in Franklin Repository.]

It is with great pleasure I see announced in various papers throughout the Commonwealth the name of Hon. John Scott, of Huntingdon, as a Republican successor of Mr. Buckalew in the United States Senate. He is one of the ablest lawyers in the State; is a strong, clear, convincing speaker, and thoroughly acquainted with State and national politics. An active and thorough Republican, he is also a man of spotless purity and high moral courage, proof against the enticements or pressure of wrong.

[From the Harrisburg Telegraph.]

Mr. Scott is one of the most able men in the State.

[From the Bedford County Press.]

In regard to his (Mr. Scott's) qualifications for the high position to which he is thus timely named, we would say that no better or fitter man can be found within the limits of the State. * * * Let our members of the Legislature, in the discharge of their important duty, look, and look only, to the capacity, integrity, and fitness of aspirants. The people of this great Commonwealth, honest and loyal, demand this at their hands.

A correspondent in the Hollidaysburg Register offers the following as an additional claim in favor of John Scott for the position of United States Senator:

This part of the State has certainly not received more than its portion of State honors. The interior has not had a United States Senator for more than half a century, I believe, excepting Mr. Bigler, who always belonged to the other school of politics. The east and the west have had a monopoly of nearly all the State officers for many years.

Let us then join our Huntingdon friends in urging the claims of the interior, and the claims and qualifications of our distinguished fellow citizen, the Hon. John Scott.

I believe in encouraging home productions, in both commodities and men; and I am utterly opposed to going abroad to supply our wants, when we can do better at home. It is high time we should show sufficient intelligence and pride to appreciate and honor our own citizens, when like Mr. Scott, they have proved themselves men of the highest honor, integrity and ability.

INSULT TO AMERICA.—Mr. Charles A Washburn, our Ex-minister to Paraguay, has got himself in trouble. Lopez, the Dictator of that country, conceived the idea that he was to be made the victim of a conspiracy in which two of his own brothers were alleged to be concerned. One of these had taken refuge with Minister Washburn, as had also a number of others. All these refugees were delivered up to the tyrant, and either summarily disposed of, or put upon the rack and made to confess. Lopez, not content with this, gave a direct insult to our Government by arresting two members of our Legation, throwing them into prison, and subjecting them to the most revolting torture. Nothing was said by Minister Washburn in regard to these outrages until he was on board the steamer Wasp on his way home. Then he heaped abuse upon Lopez, but the two members of his legation were suffering torture. Mr. Washburn's conduct in the affair is thought to be very cowardly, and very unbecoming the character of a representative of so great a nation. General McMahon is the new Minister, when it is to be hoped that the matter will be investigated and the honor of America completely vindicated.

ANXIOUS TO BURY THEIR PARTY.—And what shall we do now? Our advice would be to disband the Democratic party at once, for it is pretty effectually killed off; and organize a new conservative party to support Grant, if his course shall justify it. In this way the Radical leaders may be sloughed off from the Administration, and a great conservative party built up that will control the destinies of the country. The Whig party went under in 1852, when it was not worse beaten than the Democracy were on Tuesday, and had a better odor in the North than its successful rival has now. "History is philosophy teaching by examples." Let us profit by it, and try to make amends for the errors of the past three years. Democracy being dead, let us bury it out of sight. —Lynchburg Virginian.

State Agricultural College.

Dr. Thomas H. Burrowes Chosen President.—Another Farm to be Purchased.

From the Harrisburg State Guard, Nov. 12.

The trustees of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College met at the office of the State Agricultural Society, on Second Street, yesterday, for the purpose of choosing a President of the College. It will be remembered that the Convention of County Agricultural Societies, which assembled here during the State Fair, after a full discussion and in obedience to the universally expressed will of the people, recommended a change in the administration of the Farm School at Bellefonte, as absolutely necessary to make the institution effective.

At the meeting yesterday there were present Messrs. Watts, of Cumberland; M'Allister, of Centre; Kelley, of Allegheny; Hiester, of Dauphin; White, of Indiana; Hon. Frank Jordan, Secretary of the Commonwealth; A Boyd Hamilton, Esq., President of the State Agricultural Society, and Secretary M'Kee—the last three being ex-officio members.

After some consideration, Thomas H. Burrowes, L. L. D., of Lancaster, was elected to fill the vacancy of President of the College.

The Committee on the selection of a farm in the Western portion of the State, to be connected with the operations of the Farm School, reported in favor of the purchase of one of one hundred and thirty acres adjoining the town of Indiana, in Indiana county, and Mr. White was authorized to examine the title to the land and report to the trustees on or before the tenth day of December next.

Hon. Thomas H. Burrowes, who is thus made President of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College, has for many years been identified with the educational interests of Pennsylvania, indeed with every prominent movement in behalf of popular education which has thus far proved successful. He was for some years State Superintendent of Common Schools, succeeding Mr. Hickok, and in that capacity he did much to develop the system. He was also the first State Superintendent of Soldiers' Orphans, having been appointed to that position by Governor Andrew G. Curtin. Dr. Burrowes has for many years ably edited the "Pennsylvania School Journal." If he accepts the important position now tendered him, the College will certainly have all the necessary administrative ability which, it is alleged, is the only thing required to make our Agricultural School a success

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.—Without taking the men into account, it appears that the women themselves are divided upon this subject, which shows that there are Radicals and Conservatives among them. Read what Mrs. R. S. McConaughy, editress of the Clayton, (Del.) Herald says upon the subject:

"The Devil in the garden of Eden, made old Mother Eve believe she did not possess the rights she should, and she, in her ignorance, rebelled, and made up her mind—woman like—that have them she must and would. The consequences of her grasping for what there was no earthly necessity, brought sin and death on all mankind. Her case should be a warning to all her descendants to be satisfied in the positions where God has placed them, lest they bring more dire calamities on the whole race. Give the white woman the right to vote, and the negro wench must have it, too, and instead of attending to women's duties everything would be neglected while the sex attended political gatherings, clubs, and any other kind of tom foolery that they might think would make them man's equal. What then would become of the poor men and children? We shudder to think of it, and shall pity them with our whole heart, when woman's reign is inaugurated. We doubt if these women's rights advocates, enjoy the rights they now possess or attend to their duties as they should, without taking any more upon their shoulders. Should not be surprised if we could see into their house holds if we did not find all the buttons wanting on their husband's shirts, their sleeves out at elbow, and their stockings minus heels and toes. We find we have all we can do to keep things working right, without fooling our time away with such nonsense."

☞The Chicago Republican says:—The present week has seen fully initiated a new and marked era in railway annals, in the introduction of the Pullman dining cars on the Chicago and St. Louis route. It was that energetic and wide awake management that earliest co-operated with the creation and introduction of the Pullman palace system, and they were the first to realize among our American roads the full perfection of a sleeping car. After careful investigation they have now adopted the dining car as the twin feature of progress, so that hereafter passengers between Chicago and St. Louis will both lodge and feed while spreading forward on their journey. This shortens the running time to St. Louis about fifty minutes. It gives the passenger a freedom from the pains and penalties of wayside feeding places. He can eat when he likes. He need not "get something to eat before leaving," but will reserve himself and his gastric forces against such time as he can leisurely take his seat at an elegant table and dine in a sixteen-wheeled restaurant parlor at thirty miles an hour. The new line went into operation on Monday, and consists of the splendid new cars "Southern," the "Tremont," and the "Brevoort," named for popular hotels. Each has two saloons that will seat twenty-four passengers on either side of the cuisine department, which occupies the centre of the car. Thus forty-eight diners may be busy at one time. The car is to run in the centre of the train, and is open at all hours, with a bill of fare that enables these cars to amply justify their names in the substantial reproduction of the best features of our best hotel tables, and which we reluctantly forbear presenting entire just to show what railroading has become on the prairies. The travelling public are already loud in their praises of the new system, which is certain to be a favorite on all through roads.

There are only seven students in the Centre County High School.

General Grant's Election--The Prospect for the Defeated Democracy.

From the New York Herald.

In the election of General Grant the Democratic party has suffered a heavy defeat. In the October elections they fought with the resolution, activity, and tenacity of General Lee in his efforts to hold intact his lines around Petersburg; but after the loss of Pennsylvania and Indiana the Democratic rank and file, like Lee when driven from his entrenchments, seemed only intent upon saving their shattered columns from annihilation. The managers of the Tammany Seymour and Blair Convention had presumed too much upon the apparent political reaction of 1867, as in 1863-64 they presumed too much upon the popular manifestations of 1862. In each case, in falling back upon the extreme Copperhead ideas that the war was a failure, and that the "Union as it was" must be re established, the Democracy undertook the hopeless battle of the Bourbons.

Where are they now? From their decisive defeat, and from all the circumstances of their position, they will be compelled to cast about for a new line of departure and a reorganization, not upon the dead issues of the past, but upon the living issues of the present time. Their fatal mistake in the late canvass was that they made it the fight of the ex-Rebels of the South against the reconstruction laws of Congress. The Northern Democratic managers in this were too fast in submitting to the demands of the Southern delegates of the Convention, most of whom had been among the leaders of the "lost cause." Thus, in the Tammany platform the declaration that the reconstruction laws of Congress were "unconstitutional, revolutionary, null and void," we had, only in other words, the repetition of the Chicago platform of 1864, that the war was a failure, and that we must have peace upon any terms acceptable to the ex Confederate party of the South. In the face of this bold and revolutionary issue all the outrageous doings for the last four years of a radical Congress, and all the vast schedule of corruptions, blunders, frauds, wastages, and profligate expenditures of the party in power eclipsed and became secondary questions in the campaign. In a word, the Tammany Convention took the very ground desired by the Republicans, and the result is the overwhelming election of Grant and Colfax and another Republican Congress of more than two thirds in the Senate and within a dozen changes or so of a two-thirds vote in the House.

We may safely assume, then, that the Southern reconstruction system adopted by Congress, subject to the Constitutional amendment, article 14, will stand. General Grant, in his famous correspondence of last February with President Johnson, which broke the nose of Chase as the radical favorite, has, on the War Department imbroglio, left upon record his position upon reconstruction. He will, as President, recognize the existing laws, and whatever modifications he may recommend in reference to the unreconstructed States will doubtless rest upon the Constitutional amendment aforesaid. That amendment, among other things, proclaims all persons born or naturalized in the United States citizens thereof and of the States in which they reside on a footing of civil equality; that suffrage and representation shall go together, as each State for itself may choose; that certain parties guilty of rebellion against the United States shall be disfranchised and disqualified for office, subject to a two-thirds vote of each house of Congress; and that Congress shall have power by appropriate legislation to enforce the provisions of this article. Thus in the reconstructed as well as in the unreconstructed Southern States, and in New York as well as in South Carolina or Texas, Congress has the power to enforce this amendment; and we dare say that in the interval to the 4th of March next a law will be passed for carrying into effect throughout the United States the provisions of said amendment.

Some new amendment has been hinted at embracing a uniform universal manhood suffrage; but meanwhile the amendment officially proclaimed, we may assume, will be carried into effect In this view the question of reconstruction may be considered as settled, however unpalatable to the extreme radicals may be the provision of this amendment fourteen, which gives to each State the discretion of a universal or restricted suffrage, subject only with a restriction of the ballot to a corresponding restriction in counting the people for representation in Congress and in the Presidential Electoral College. What, then, becomes the future programme of the Democratic party? Not a useless war against amendment fourteen, under which they may very soon recover all the Southern States, but a recognition of fixed facts and a new departure against the financial blunders and excesses of the dominant party, and in favor of a positive and clearly defined system of retrenchment and reform.

This will do for the present; but under the incoming administration new issues will certainly spring up, which in their agitation may afford a fine opportunity to the Democrats to cut in between the contending Republican factions and carry off the balance of power. At all events, the first important necessity devolving upon the Democratic leaders is the abandonment of the dead issues, and a recognition of this fixed fact, and that the "Constitution as it was," "the Union as it was," and State sovereignty as it was, are among the wrecks of the deluge.

In America seven-tenths of the people are regularly humbugged in one way or another, and largely in medicines. They invest money in chimeras, put faith in fooleries, and like nothing so well as to be taken in and done for. Many a man who would subscribe and read his home paper would save all the money he spends on humbugs.

A young gentleman and lady of New Albany, Ind., made a novel bet on the Presidential election. If Grant should be elected the young man agreed to marry the lady, and if Seymour should be elected the young lady agreed to marry the gentleman. The bet was a good one for the young lady, either way you take it.

☞Gen. Grant will have control of 53,000 offices and officers, whose annual compensation amounts to thirty millions of dollars.

TWICE BETROTHED AND TWICE JILTED.—Several years ago a young lady in Tazewell county was wooed by a young man. He obtained her consent and the consent of the old folks, and three days before the wedding she took a freak into her head and went off and married another man. The young man was heart-broken, and packed up his effects and went to New York city. There he hid his grief, buried himself in business, and engaged in speculations, was successful and became rich. A younger sister of the girl that had jilted him, moved by sympathy, commenced a correspondence with him to endeavor to mitigate his sorrow. The correspondence became interesting.—The young girl grew up, and as years rolled on ripened into great beauty.—The sight of her photograph awakened in the young man's bosom the love he supposed crushed forever. He proposed to her and was accepted. Her father was a widower and was anxious to get married himself as soon as his daughter was out of the way, so he urged the match forward. The means of the lover now admitted a brilliant wedding, and preparations were made for it. They were to be married last Wednesday in style, and depart immediately for New York city.

A few days ago the expectant bride received a letter from her betrothed, stating that he had entered into a speculation that would keep him in the city, so that he could not possibly be with her at the time appointed, and asking her to delay the ceremony for a day or two. He also referred to the time when he had expected to be united to her sister. Provoked to think that he still remembered his former love, the young lady wrote him in a passion, and sitting down at the same time wrote to a cousin of hers, a farmer in Iowa, who had long loved her, telling him that she had broken her engagement, relating the circumstances to him, and ending by saying that she was all ready to be married, and if he would come, and be there at the time set for her wedding, she would marry him. He complied. Her betrothed in New York, astonished to receive her letter, closed up his business as best he could, and came to Tazewell county by the next train.—He reached the little village where she lived, and was hastening up to the house to fulfill his engagement when he was met by some of his friends, and told that his bride had just been married to another man. He fainted away on the spot, and was taken up to the hotel. When the bride was told of it she was overwhelmed with remorse, but it was then too late. She was legally married to her cousin. The New Yorker, twice heart-broken, left for his home without seeing her, and she passed through this city yesterday, on her way to an Iowa farm, looking very dejected, and anything but like a bride.—*Peoria (Ill.) ☞Baron James Rothschild died in Paris on Sunday, the 14th inst. He was the head of the branch of the great banking-house of the Rothschilds, located in France; was the youngest and only surviving son of Mayer Anselm Rothschild, of Frankfort-on the Main, founder of the great European money firm. With the demise of Baron James, the second generation of this family of money-dealers disappears from earth. For many years, trembling thrones, exhausted treasuries and bankrupt dynasties have found deliverance in the exhaustless vaults of the family. The founder of the house was father of five sons, all of whom were successively taken into the business as soon as they became of age. Anselm was his father's partner and successor in the house at Frankfort; Solomon, at first traveling partner, finally settled at Vienna, where he represented the business of the firm; Nathan Mayer settled in London in 1798, was the ablest financier of the family, and became the most powerful money-changer in the world; Charles opened a branch house at Naples in 1821; and James, the youngest of the five brothers, after spending some time with his brother at Vienna, established himself at Paris. Thus during the lifetime of the father the sons were established in five connected houses, comprising the wealthiest and most powerful banking firm ever organized.

The Pittsburg Female College

Is closing a properous Fall term. Young ladies, representing nearly one-third of the States in the Union, are present, and the boarding department is so full that there are but four vacancies. The buildings are thoroughly furnished and fitted up in good style. Every department is supplied with able and accomplished teachers, amounting in all to upwards of twenty. In all the facilities for obtaining a thorough, solid and ornamental education, the college has no rival in the State, and but few in the Union. The Winter Term commences December 6. We most heartily commend the College to all who have daughters to educate, and who desire for them thorough culture, combined with careful oversight and the influences of a Christian home. Send to the President, Rev. I. C. Pershing, Pittsburg, for a catalogue.

David Hazzard, a former resident of this place, engineer at the Johnstown Mechanical Works, had his thumb and forefinger of his left hand taken off on Friday a week, cleaning the engine, when a piece of cloth he was using caught on a pinion wheel, and pulled his hand between two wheels, which cut off his thumb and finger.

Grant's election will give confidence to the people, and add much to the business of Huntingdon. Let our capitalists erect dwellings, encourage mechanics and business men to settle in our midst, and ere long, our town will enter upon that career of prosperity that by its advantageous position, it is justly entitled,

We want local news from every township and borough in the county. Tell us the accidents, the discoveries, the improvements—in fact, any news you choose. Will not some one or more of our patrons in every part of the county let us hear from them regularly. Every item of news will be of interest to somebody.

The Army and Navy Journal tells a good story of one of Sherman's soldiers, who, at the close of the war, when he had returned victorious to his home and household goods, never was able to accustom himself to the soft luxury of a feather bed, and was fain to stretch himself, if he would sleep at all, on mother earth. One night a chance pistol shot wakened the veteran, when he instantly turned over and began to intrench himself, scratching up the ground with his hands.

To Our Readers.

We don't blame anybody for reading the Globe whenever they get a chance, but we would just suggest whether it is not better to read a paper for which you subscribe than it is to read one for which you do not subscribe. The cheapness of country papers, we think, has operated against their circulation rather than extended it—for there are persons who think that when an article is dear therefore it is better. While this holds true in regard to some articles of food and raiment, still it does not hold good in regard to the mental food afforded from the newspapor. Publishers have made the rates as low as they possibly can, in order to benefit the community in which they live. There is no one who will say, in the light of many years experience, that the country newspaper is not a benefit. It has, indeed, built up the waste places, and gives a character and notoriety abroad to the places in which they are located; besides affording pleasure and profit to the people of the town and county who regularly receive it.

No one, who can subscribe, (and there are few indeed who would miss two dollars a year out of their earnings,) should be without his local paper. There are many "extras," in which an individual indulges that do not afford him the same pleasure or profit as does a newspaper, and there are many who foolishly spend in one short hour as much money as would enable them to subscribe for a dozen newspapors. If a person when reading a newspaper would reflect upon the good that it dispenses weekly, they would never think of being without it.

Accident.

Mr. William Goodman, a carpenter of this place, while at Mill Creek on Monday morning, met with a painful accident. He was on his way to work at McVeytown, and the train stopped at Mill Creek for the Baltimore Express to pass. He was standing on the northern track, and discovered the Express train coming, when he got on the other track behind the caboose car. As he was standing there, the engineer of the freight train backed up against the caboose, which struck Goodman and knocked him down across the track, and one of the trucks run over both his legs and broke them below the knee. He was brought home and his wounds dressed by Dr. D. P. Miller.

New for Business and Good Times.

The country is in the hands of a good man—the people of all parties feel it, and business and prosperity will look up. Confidence is restored—men of means will feel like investing in anything to give employment to the industrious, and make business active generally. The first duty of a good citizen is to encurage the industry of his own town—his own neighborhood—his own county. Protect each other—"Let us have Peace"—"Let us be Friends"—Support those who support you. Have a local pride—support your local interests. Do not go abroad for what you can get at home. Help one another.

Horse Thief Caught.

On Friday last a German named Bower, came to town riding a fine bay mare and offered her for sale. She was purchased by one of our citizens for $80. $50 was paid cash and a check on the bank given for the balance. On Monday morning Bower came to town again to lift the balance, but before the Bank opened he was arrested by parties from Snyder county where he stole the mare. The mare is still in town but Bower was immediately taken to Snyder county for trial. The check was recovered by the gentleman who gave it.

Where is Your Boy at Night?

The practice of allowing boys to spend their evenings in the streets is one of the most ruinous, dangerous, and mischievous things possible. Nothing so speedily and surely marks their course downward. They acquire, under the cover of night, an unhealthy state of mind, vulgar and profane language, obscene practices, criminal sentiments, and a lawless, riotous bearing. Indeed, it is in the streets, after nightfall, that boys acquire the education and the capacity for becoming rowdy, dissolute men.

The Long Evenings.

Every family should be supplied with good books and papers for those who can read, and amusing games for the children. Make home a garden spot—a place to amuse as well as to educate—and there will be no desire to seek pleasure where, too often, misery only is found.

Thanksgiving Day.

There will be service in the St. James Evangelical Lutheran Church, (D. V.) on the 26th inst, (Thanksgiving), at 10½ o'clock, A. M.

Dear brethren, members of our congregation, let this day be an holy convocation. Let all be in their places. Bring all under your authority and in your employ. Fellow-citizens, "let us enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His Courts with praise, for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour."

Fellow Soldiers—once partners in the dangers and sufferings incident to a soldier's life, in this Proclamation we recognize the voice of a brave soldier. He was loved and obeyed when death awaited us; now, that life and happiness are the reward, let us cheerfully comply with his wish. "Who, then, is willing to consecrate his service, this day, unto the Lord."

I ask you who are young, on whose shoulders, in the future, must fall the weight of a mighty Republic. I call unto you, middle-aged, to whom are committed the rising generation for training. I appeal to you aged, whose locks are white with the frosts of many winters; come let us bless the Lord, the God of the Pilgrim Fathers, of Washington, of the Sires of '76 and of the heroes of '61.

J. J. KERR, Pastor.

"YOU DON'T TELL ME SO!"—An honest-hearted Democrat from Windsor came to town early last evening, and steered at once for Democratic headquarters to get the news. Just as he got on the foot of the stair way leading to the rooms, he was accosted by one of the faithful, who said: "The State has gone for Grant." "By golly to thunder; gosh darn it all, my stars; you don't tell me so?" "Yes, and that ain't the worst of it—New Haven has gone back on us!" "No! Thunder and lightning, you don't tell me so!" "Yes, and that ain't the worst of it—Pennsylvania is all one way for Grant." "Hang my garters, blazes and gimlets, you don't tell me so?" "Yes, and that ain't the worst of it—Ohio cleans us out all through." "Ohio does? I'll be horn swoggled, gingerbread and scissors to grind, you don't tell me so?" "Yes, and that ain't the worst of it—everything is against us; we are completely flaxed out everywhere!" "Is that so? Condemn the gol blasted luck, by jimminy thunder; darn it all to— to— to—. I swan—to—darn it all—gol blast—you don't tell me so?" At last accounts the old chap was heading homeward, making very nice caroms up Windsor avenue. —Hartford Courant. Nov. 4.

☞A busy man is a locomotive, and life a track. Every night he drives into "the house," and stops. Every morning he is fired up anew, and away he goes switching off in one direction and then in another. In this routine of business he forgets that the physical organization is of the most delicate kind. If a hard iron locomotive needs constant care, and to be well oiled up and rubbed off every day, how much more necessary is it that all men and women should use Plantation Bitters, which are the ne plus ultra of everything which is necessary to keep the system in a perfect tone of health. 1t.

He still maintains an interest in the paper, and is one of the oldest editors in the United States, and has always published a good paper. The Republican has been in existence for ten years. FISH BREEDING IN THE SUSQUEHANNA.—The Philadelphia Bulletin refers in the following manner to the efforts of gentlemen to stock the river with black bass:

"The citizens of Harrisburg and of the towns upon the Susquehanna river above that city, are making arrangements to stock the river and its confluent streams with black bass; and with every encouraging prospect of success. The scheme is a very praiseworthy one, and deserves the hearty support of all the people of that section. Ever since the discovery of this country, the inhabitants have engaged in the work of destroying its game, and have neglected to protect it in any manner, or to help its propagation. This reckless havoc has produced inevitable scarcity, until, in river and land alike, wild animals worth pursuing can hardly be obtained without going into the wilderness. Happily, the reaction has begun. Pisciculture has attracted a great deal of attention lately, and in various portions of the country is conducted so successfully that it bids fair to become a very important and valuable interest. The people of Pennsylvania succeeded, some years ago, in arranging the dams in the Susquehanna so that the shad could ascend to waters to which it had long been a stranger, and the very gratifying results of this undertaking have encouraged them to other efforts in the same direction. It is intended to introduce the black bass into the Susquehanna, Juniata, and other rivers, in large numbers, and as this fish propagates very rapidly, and is of delicious flavor when served up for the table, it is thought that a new, abundant and cheap article of food will soon be provided for the people of our inland towns. If the experiment is successful there is no reason why salmon and other good fish may not be cultivated also.

But to insure success, the fish must be protected by stringent and severe legislation. The American people have been so accustomed to regard wild fish and flesh as common property, that it is difficult to restrain them from wholesale, indiscriminate slaughter when opportunity offers Fish placed in the Susquehanna should be permitted to remain there unmolested for five or six years at least, and seine fishing should be prohibited during that time. If the Harrisburg people carry out their design, there will probably be no difficulty in securing the necessary legislation. All far sighted and prudent men will at once recognize the excellence of the undertaking, and the necessity for giving it all the encouragement and protection possible."

"GOD SAVE OUR PRESIDENT."

BY FRANCIS DE HAES JANVIER.

All hail! Unfurl the stripes and stars?
The banner of the free!
Ten times ten thousand patriots greet
The shrine of Liberty!
Come, with one heart, one hope, one aim.
An undivided band,
To elevate, with solemn rites,
The ruler of our land!

Not to invest a potentate
With robes of majesty;
Not to confer a kingly crown,
Nor bend a subject knee;
We bow beneath no sceptered sway,
Obey no royal nod;
Columbia's sons, erect and free,
Kneel only to their God!

Our ruler boasts no kingly rank;
No ancient, princely line;
No legal right to sovereignty,
Ancestral and divine:
A patriot, at his country's call,
Responding to her voice;
One of the people—he becomes
A sovereign by our choice!

And now, before the mighty pile
We've reared to Liberty,
He swears to cherish and defend
The charter of the free!
God of our country! seal his oath
With thy Supreme assent.
God save the Union of the States!
GOD SAVE OUR PRESIDENT!

Economy in the Family.

The time is arriving when more economy in the family expenses will become imperative. Among our mercantile people in the cities I hear of many failures, so that families that have been living in opulence and extravagance that a plain woman like myself knows scarcely anything about, will be obliged to economize fearfully. They will have to adopt a totally different course of life. Luxuries will have to be abandoned, and unless they have wealthy friends to lean on for succor, they may be driven to the dreadful alternative—even the wives and daughters—to labor for their own support. The change will be terrible, heartrending to them, but it will no doubt promote their health and digestion, enable them to sleep soundly, and wake up in the morning with the consciousness that the breakfast about to be set before them they have earned by the sweat of their brow.

We have no doubt, however, that such a change will in the end prove beneficial. The wastefulness, extravagance and excess of the American people, in eating, drinking and dressing, has not a parallel in the history of the world; and all this has been opposed to health, happiness and morals. When, as a nation, we tread in the footsteps of the old nations, we shall have to follow them as families and individuals. If we go, therefore, among the rural and laboring classes of Scotland, Switzerland, France, Germany, Sweden and Russia, we may take lessons in our future modes of life. In health and vigor they are among the first people of the earth, yet their expenditures are nothing in comparison to ours. Indeed, the waste of a common American town of ten thousand people would almost or quite support as large a population in the rural districts of Europe.

Never shall we come to their level, for our country is new and differently situated, but the next generation of Americans cannot hope to live as we have, and there we could take lessons in economy that would be very useful to us. We could discover, as we shall be forced to by some means, that a family can be subsisted upon a very small portion of what Americans are accustomed to expend; nay, that they can be fed on what is now, in many instances, thrown out at their back door to the dogs. Those of us that take these lessons and practice upon them first, will be the best off in the end.

SLUR ON WOMEN.—Of all the evils prevalent among young men, we know of none more blighting in its moral effects than the tendency to speak slightingly of the virtue of women.—Nor is there anything in which young men are so thoroughly mistaken as in the low estimate they form of the integrity of women—not of their own mothers and sisters, thank God, but of others, who, they forget, are somebody else's mothers and sisters.

As a rule, no person who surrenders to this debasing habit is safe to be trusted with any enterprise requiring integrity of character.

Plain words should be spoken on this point, for the evil is a general one, and deep-rooted. If young men are sometimes thrown into the society of thoughtless or even lewd women, they have no more right to measure all other women by what they see of these than they would have to estimate the characters of honest and respectable citizens by the developments of crime in our police courts.

Let young men remember that their chief happiness in life depends upon their utter faith in woman. No worldly wisdom, no misanthropic philosophy, no generalization can cover or weaken this fundamental truth. It stands like the record of God himself—for it is nothing less than this—and should put an everlasting seal upon lips that are wont to speak slightingly of women.

WE PASS FOR WHAT WE ARE.—A man passes for what he is worth. Very idle is all curiosity concerning other people's estimate of us, and all fear for remaining unknown is not less so. If a man knows that he can do anything—knows that he can do it better than any one else—he has a pledge of acknowledgment of that fact by all persons. The world is full of judgment days, and into every assemblage that a man enters, in every action that he attempts, he is gauged and stamped. In every troop of boys that whoop and run in each yard and square, a new comer is well and accurately weighed in the course of a few days and stamped with his right number, as if he had undergone a formal trial of his speed and temper. A stranger comes from a distant school, with a better dress, trinkets in his pockets, with airs and pretensions. An older boy says, "It's of no use, we shall find him out to-morrow."—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

☞ The feast of imagination is as follows: "When your stomach is empty and your pocket ditto, sit down and read a cookery-book."

☞ Many men and women have had occasion to know that two do not necessarily make a pair.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Pits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as do Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

will quickly restore Gray Hair to its natural color and beauty, and produce luxuriant growth. It is perfectly harmless, and is preferred over every other preparation by those who have a fine head of hair, as well as those who wish to restore it.
